

SALT LAKE CITY & COUNTY BUILDING TOUR

MONDAY, JUNE 12TH $7

The Salt Lake City and County Building is one of Salt Lake City's most beloved landmarks. Completed in the 1894, the building is Utah's finest example of Richardsonian Romanesque architecture. Its rich history includes the Utah State Constitutional Convention, the trial of Joe Hill, and an infamous pumpkin. In the late 1980s, it became the first building in the world to be retrofitted with base isolators. During an earthquake, the building will gently float on 440 steel and rubber "slinkies." Utah Heritage Foundation's one-hour guided tour of the City and County Building begins with the base isolators beneath the building and ends in the clock tower high above.

Meet at the Provo FrontRunner Station at 9:40am

Bring money for lunch at the building's café for an early lunch before the tour if you wish. Tour begins at noon.
We will be home at approximately 3:15pm
